FRENCH STATE TAKES ACTION ON 3 PRIORITIES TO ADVANCE THE DISABILITY ACT OF 2005

PART II CONFERENCE PREFECT SOPHIE BROCAS

Paris, Washington DC, 21.12.2015, 04:58 Time

USPA NEWS - The participants, were invited to reflect on their attitudes and vis-à-vis positioning of people with disabilities by sweeping popular belief: no, disability is not synonymous with misery and we do not have to save inappropriately people with disabilities in their daily difficulties.

THREE GOVERNMENT PRIORITIES ARE OUTLINED BY THE GOVERNOR SOPHIE BROCAS-----

The participants, were invited to reflect on their attitudes and vis-à-vis positioning of people with disabilities by sweeping popular belief: no, disability is not synonymous with misery and we do not have to save inappropriately people with disabilities in their daily difficulties of life which are proper to the human being. However, technical and medical disability compensations are not a panacea and it is primarily a question of "human accessibility".-----

The Prefect, Sophie Brocas, wanted to "reaffirm the Government's commitment to find a concrete expression to the principle of universal accessibility". This commitment translates into three priorities:

- 1- Increase accessibility: public and private actors which were not in compliance with the reachability obligation had until last October to file in city hall or prefecture, a "programmed agenda of accessibility" (Ad'ap);
- 2- Promote access to equality: the State adjusts its websites so that everyone can access information that is scattered there;
- 3- Solutions for all: the mission "A response with for all" now accepts the recommendations of the report of Mr. Denis Piveteau "Zero without Solutions."

THE ACTION OF STATE SERVICES TO IMPROVE THE DAILY FOR DISABLED

This conference closes a series of actions undertaken since the start of the year on the occasion of this anniversary: "meeting new two advisory departmental committees of the disabled, the realization of an exhibition of people with disabilities in the workplace and an awareness campaign among the region prefecture agents.
